

Job description: Technical Support Engineer

Job description:

The Technical Support Engineer works with the Laboratory / Scientific equipment's manufacturing for electrical wiring and electronics controller background and other relevant information on user support and training in Laboratory equipment's manufacturing activities are also comprised of important responsibilities in this position.

1. Installation of testing instruments and inspection of assembled Laboratory / Scientific.
2. Inspection of all operating parts to ensure proper operation within expected tolerances.
3. Tune and troubleshoot equipment for proper operation.
4. Interact with internal and external project manager during field projects.
5. Clearly and professionally interact with customer, regarding the status of commissioning, daily.
6. Able to determine the tools and equipment required to perform the scope of job.
7. Perform routine maintenance on equipment and assist in establishing preventative maintenance schedules with customer.
8. Assemble, align and install equipment as necessary.
9. Travel, approximately 80% of the time.
10. Problem-solving skills.
11. Strong analytical and technical skills.
12. Good communication and interpersonal skills.
13. Good time management and organizational skills

Job Requirement:

1. ITI / Diploma in Electronics and Instrumentation Engineering with a minimum 4 years' experience of directly related experience.
2. Experience in test Laboratory / Scientific Industries.
3. Geography needed to capture from your home location.
4. Passport will be mandatory.
5. Willing to travel 10-15 days a month local and surroundings.
6. Salary negotiable based.

For more details visit us : rtcin.com ; luxmed.in ; labosys.in